Football Arguments

(Q.)—At a place or centre the centre forward kicks the ball with the instep of his boot and rolls along the centre line three feet. What is the law?

(A.)—Law 10 applies here. The ball in this case has travelled a distance of its circumference and consequently the law has been complied with.

(Q.)—A goalkeeper, outside the goal area, but within the penalty area, stoops to pick up the ball when an opponent charges at him, the charge being fair. Is this a foul?

(A.)—Law 8, Clause 2, reads as follows:—"The goalkeeper must not be charged except when he is holding the ball or when an opponent or when he has been fouled outside the goal area." Clause 4, reads as follows:—"Charging is permissible when it must not be violent or dangerous."

It will be noted, therefore, that directly he leaves his goal, the goalkeeper may be charged whether he is holding the ball or not. As my correspondent says, the charge was a fair one and since no offence has been committed the referee would allow play to proceed.

(Q.)—A forward was endeavouring to keep the ball from going out of play midway between the goal-post and corner flag. The ball was following close to the heels of the forward. When the forward slightly reduced his pace in order to try and screw the ball across the goal, the full-back collided with him, causing the ball to fall; meanwhile, the ball crossed the line.

In the view of the man who saw it was a deliberate foul, would the referee without hesitation award a penalty kick. Did the referee decide correctly?

International Prospects for Next Year.

The policy of the Australian Association for next year is being discussed in all States at the present time, and a number of proposals are being considered.

A definite offer has been made by the United States Association, offering to send a team to U.S.A. next year, and this will be considered by the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Association at the end of this month.

The German Association is considering a proposal that a team be sent to Australia next year. The financial terms to Australia would be advantageous as compared with other tours.

Professor K. L. Kwong, the Chinese manager, has indicated that probably an Australian team will be invited to China next season.

A tour of either the United States or China would prove a great attraction to the Australian player, and it is anticipated that one of those tours will be arranged for next year.

N.S.W. Association.

The N.S.W. Council will hold a meeting next Sunday to clear up the accumulation of business, including the draw for next round of the Gardiner Cup.

The matter as to whether a new team will be sent to Hobart next year will be discussed, and the steps to be taken re football.

The question of the future of football in this State will be considered, and a suggestion that a conference of the clubs should be held will be considered.

Questions.

LAWS OF THE GAME.

(To the Editor.)

(1) A free kick is given against the 'keeper for carrying. On taking the kick one of the attackers jumps over the ball; the man behind follows on and takes the kick. The man who jumps over the ball is obstructing the defender's view. Should the kick be taken again?

(2) On a corner kick being given, one player of the defending side, who is standing on his own goal-line, stands one yard from the ball. Seeing he is on his own goal-line, should he be ordered 10 yards away?

(3) A corner kick is given. The kicker removes corner flag; is cautioned, and continues to remove flag; is ordered off the field. How is game continued? Does another player take the corner kick, or is the ball dropped to re-start, or is a free kick given against the attackers?

(4) The goal-keeper has time to get rid of ball, but instead lies on same. Under what law should a free kick be given against him?

(5) A player shoots the ball into goal; the 'keeper misses same. The full-back, seeing a sure goal about to be scored, punches ball out. Should referee award a goal?

"JUNIOR."

Answers.

(1) No; the kick should not be taken again. It is not an offence to obstruct a defender's view, unless he was offside when he did it. There is no offence committed.

(2) Yes; he should be ordered 10 yards away. The law only means in this instance between the goal-posts, where it is not always possible to get 10 yards away.

(3) Yes; another player must be asked to take the kick, and the first player sent off and reported.

Ungentlemanly Conduct.

(4) For the first offence a caution would be given; then the referee would drop the ball at the spot where the goalkeeper lay. For the second offence he should be sent off, and a free kick given under Law 13 for ungentlemanly conduct.

(5) The referee has not the power to award a goal.

Canterbury's Team Against Adamstown.

Canterbury's team against Adamstown in the Gardiner Cup at Newcastle to-day is as follows:—Greagg, McLaren, Reid, Arrighi, Forbes, Hotsen, Gourtney, McLeod, Wright, Ruffle, Hotsen.

Did You Know That—

Corrimal lodged a protest against the result of the match which was played at Redfern Oval last Saturday?

Geo. Smith, the inter-State centre-forward, was sent off for wearing aluminium studs on the heel of one boot?

The P. and D. Committee is taking evidence on the case, and will conclude its inquiry on Monday night?

The State League, the break-away body, issued the studs to Smith at the beginning of the year, and, according to report, are being used by a large number of players throughout the State?

Football Arguments.

(Q.)—A free kick was awarded against the goalkeeper for "carrying" the ball, a free kick from which a goal cannot be scored direct. Instead of the usual method of the defending team standing on their own goal line and packing the goal, all the (goalkeeper included) came on and stood well behind the ball which was placed for the free kick a yard or two from the goal.

The player taking the kick had a player of his own side on each side of him, but, the goal being empty, he was evidently puzzled what to do. When the whistle blew for the kick to be taken, the kicker passed the ball to his own colleague on his left, who was behind the ball. Immediately the defending players claimed offside against the second player.

The claim was upheld by the referee, who stated that when the second player got the ball he had not two opponents nearer his own goal line. Was the referee right in allowing the defending players to stand where they did? Was offside a correct decision? If the second player had put the ball into the empty goal, would it have been a legitimate point?

(A.)—So long as the defending players stood ten yards behind the ball, the referee was perfectly justified in allowing them to stand where they did. They could have stood on their own goal line in position that players with any sense would always take up.

When taking the kick, the kicker has only to pass the ball a yard or so to one of his own side, who is behind the ball, and the latter only requires to tap it into the net to score a perfectly legitimate goal. When the kicker passes the ball to his colleague, the latter does not require to have two opponents nearer their own goal line.

So long as he is behind the ball the law is complied with, and this was the player's position as described by my interrogator, and the referee was wrong in giving him offside, and stating that it was necessary for him to have two opponents between him and the opposing goal.
